"Awesome! Presenter was excellent and her resources were ground breaking in the area of technology."

Katie McKnight is...

an author, educator and consultant. Her career in education began as a high school English teacher in the Chicago Public School system more than 20 years ago. She received her B.A. degree from George Washington University, her M.Ed. from Northeastern Illinois University, and her Ph.D. from the University of Illinois at Chicago. Today, she serves as a professor of secondary education at National Louis University. She is passionate about creating curricula that engage all students in the regular education classroom.

And she is completely committed to the development, sharing, and promotion of ideas and strategies that develop literacy skills in adolescent students so that they can grow to be active, creative adults.

Dr. McKnight visits schools all over the nation and internationally, where she teaches administrators, teachers and parents about the power of literacy and differentiated instruction – and provides strategies and hands-on support so they can implement them in their very own classrooms. She regularly publishes in professional journals and is the author of many books.
